REPORT TO THE LISTENER

Valerie van Isler, General Manager

"The problem of the twentieth century is the problem of the color line - the relation of the darker to the lighter races ... in Asia and Africa, in America and the islands of the sea.... The meaning of the twentieth century is the freeing of the individual soul, the soul longest in slavery and still in the most indefensible slavery is the soul of womanhood."

Dr. W.E.B. Dubois

WBAI was there at the 125th anniversary celebration of the life and work of Dr. Dubois. And once again, his tremendous integrity, his struggle for freedom and equality came through as a shining call to renew our own commitment to a global vision for peace and justice. His work is a gift to the coming 21st century.

"The only thing to do in a crisis is to grow." Dr. Dubois could have written this too, because it reflects his spirit. But it was Lew Hill, journalist and founder of Pacifica radio, who penned those words over 40 years ago. For community organizations like WBAI, they seem truer than ever. We have just completed a very hard year in which WBAI won more awards and recognition than ever before, but the expenses for operating for the station increased greatly as well. As we begin our new programming and fiscal calendar, we have worlds of work to do together: to improve our services, expand our audience, increase our membership base and "grow the station" out of the deficit operation of this past year and into a stronger, more vital and secure future.

The mission and the challenge this year is to raise nearly $2 million dollars in order for WBAI to continue broadcasting our award-winning, informed and stimulating programming in news, international developments, the arts, culture and politics. And there is so much more which the station wants to do for our community of members including these coming special WBAI events:

A WBAI-Institute for Media Analysis Benefit on November 9 at the historic Village Gate called "Crisis in the New World Order" with former CIA agent and author Phillip Agee, Michael Ratner of the Center for Constitutional Rights, Bill Schaap, Institute Director, Bob Parry author of the new book "The October Surprise," Ari Ben Menashe, a former Israeli intelligence officer, and special invited artist, Manon Charlemagne of Haiti.

Please come to the WBAI Special Benefit around the 30th anniversary of President John F. Kennedy's assassination in November, 1963 We will feature an exclusive New York showing of Oliver Stone's film "JFK: the Director's Cut" which contains scenes and footage which were not part of the theatrical release. The November 20 benefit screening includes a special panel with invited guests: Michael Parenti, Dick Gregory,Victor Navasky and many others. Please join us for this very important and very special program.

Jim Garrison – Oliver Stone and the Meaning of Victory

by Ellen Ray and Bill Schaap

It is one year since Jim Garrison died, nearly two years since Oliver Stone's film, "JFK," opened, and almost five years since we published Garrison's book, "On the Trail of the Assassins." Over the years we came to know Jim Garrison well (well enough to know he was as decent, as honest, and as generous as Kevin Costner could ever have hoped to portray).

The impact of "JFK" was astonishing. People who were not born when [President John F.] Kennedy was assassinated learned more in a few hours about this watershed in American history than they had in their lifetimes. The CIA's religion of secrecy took a beating; laws were passed to start the process of opening long-sealed cartons of hastily classified documents. (And the CIA President lost his bid for reelection.) Yet the vilification of Garrison by most of the mainstream press was intensified, rather than diminished, by the success of "JFK."

The viciousness of the attacks on Garrison, and on Stone, was, to be sure, an indication of how close to the mark the book and the film were (not just as to the substantive nature of the event, of the assassination as a conspiracy and of Lee Harvey Oswald as a patsy), but also as to the supine complicity of the media. An astonishing number of the journalists who had committed themselves to the "lone-nut" theory in 1963 were still around, and more powerful. A chorus of reporters, many of whom were obviously and knowingly distorting the facts or deliberately lying, accused Stone of heinous crimes, not least of which was relying so heavily on Garrison's view. (After considerable prodding from Garrison, we cured ourselves of saying "Jim Garrison's theory." And he would remind us, "It's not a theory; it's what happened. If you don't believe me, call it a lie. But, if you do believe me, then stop calling it a theory.")

Jim Garrison in 1967
AP/Wide World Photos

Oliver Stone was quite a courageous director to make "JFK." When he first optioned Garrison's book, we knew he believed in it, but we also knew he didn't quite understand what he was getting into. It was one thing to take on the Vietnam Warriors, to take on the Salvadoran junta, even to take on Wall Street. But, to take on the Warren Commission boosters? From the day he began researching the film, Stone would call us and say, "Hey, there's a whole bunch of people who don't like Garrison, isn't there? They're really on my ass." But he persevered and produced a most remarkable film.

Shortly before he died, we visited Jim Garrison, at home in the hospital bed he had been confined to almost since the day he shot his scenes for "JFK." He had no regrets, he told us. After 25 embattled years, his book had become a best seller in a dozen countries, and "JFK" had opened around the world to enthusiastic audiences. "One victory like this," he told us, "is enough for any lifetime."

Ellen Ray and Bill Schaap run Sheridan Square Press; they also publish "Lies Of Our Times," a monthly magazine of media criticism.

Although questions as to who really killed Kennedy (and why) still persist–30 years after his death–investigators of various ideological stripes are convinced that the "lone gunman" theory is, at best, suspect.

To mark the 30th anniversary, WBAI producers, starting with The Morning Show at 7:00 am, through World View at 7:00 pm, will examine the volumes of medical, political and legal evidence and theories related to the assassination, and the subsequent coverup.

Among the guests will be Oliver Stone, Noam chomsky, political scientist, Michael Parenti, historian Blanche Weisen-Cook, Fletcher Proudy, Zach Sklar, and many others from medical, intelligence and political fields.

22nd ANNUAL WBAI HOLIDAY CRAFTS FAIR

© Joie A. Rosen

During the Holiday Season, thousands of New Yorkers will witness mediocrity in the form of mass produced goods and over-rated events. Bah humbug! May we suggest a creative alternative:? WBAI's Annual Crafts Fair, New York's oldest, largest, and most prestigious winter crafts fair and is considered one of the finest contemporary craft showcases highlighting America's top craftspeople!

This year, the WBAI Holiday Crafts Fair is once again offering a vast array of quality contemporary crafts. Over 300 craftspeople will display their distinctive jewelry, glass, leather, ceramics, textiles, wood and metal items (All proceeds go to benefit non-commercial, listener-supported WBAI-FM)

Three Weekends/Three Major Events
All New Exhibitors Each Week!

The WBAI Holiday Crafts Fair will be held at Columbia University's Ferris Booth Hall (located at 115 Street & Broadway), from December 3-5, 10-12, & 17-19. The fair is open to the public each Friday from 5:00 -9:00 pm, and from 11:00 am - 6:00 pm each Saturday & Sunday. Admission: $6.00 per person. (For a $15.00 one-time fee, fair-goers can gain unlimited entry to all three shows for any and all days of their choice.)

Transportation: IRT 7th Ave. local (the #1 or #9) to 116th St. & Broadway. Good parking is also available in the Columbia University area. For more information, call (212) 695-4465.

Noon Natural Living with Gary Null
1:00 Joy Journal with Carletta Joy Walker
2:00 WBAI's Education Initiative: Savage Inequalities - Race, Class and the Future of Public Education. Noted author Jonathan Kozol argues that public education does not put inner-city public school students, with large numbers of students of color, on an equal footing with those in wealthy white suburban communities, but rather widens the gap between them. In this, the first in a series of special reports on New York City's public education system, we will take a look at the two-tier system of public education: how did it come about? What can be done to save our inner-city schools? Against this background, we will sketch a history of public education in New York. Guests will include Jonathan Kozol, along with education activists, students and officials from urban and suburban school districts. Hosted by Lisa Maya Knauer & Jerry Edwin
3:00 Arts Magazine with literary mavens Brandon Judell & Carletta Joy Walker. Kory Friedmann discusses the newly formed PEN Lesbian & Gay Committee which was created to combat the censorship and inaccessibility of gay and lesbian literature. Joining him will be novelist Dorothy Allison, who just might chat about her truly brilliant "Bastard Out of Carolina," and controversial anthologist Ira Silverberg, whose "High Risk 2" will soon be hitting the streets

7:30 World View Fifteen years ago, the world was awakened to the shocking news that nearly 1,000 people had been coerced into committing "mass suicide" at "Jonestown" in the South American Republic of Guyana. In subsequent years, many theories have been advanced as to just who or what the Rev. Jim Jones really was. The massacre triggered a universal outcry for a closer examination of all quasi-religious/pseudo-political organizations and assorted cults. In this one hour special, WBAI's World View will return to the killing fields of Jonestown, Guyana, 1978 to hear from some what took place. The program will also feature an analysis of Rev. Jones's role in the political affairs of Guyana, and his relationship to several prominent members of the U.S. intelligence establishment. Produced by Samori Marksman with Lou Wolf, Publisher of Covert Action quarterly

compiled by Annette Walker

"I've been breathing, meditating and relaxing for years now," quipped Carletta Joy Walker (Joy Journal–Mondays, 1:00 pm). She is sharing her skills during her Fall Series of Relaxation and Tension Reduction workshops held on alternate Saturday mornings at The Friends Meeting House in Manhattan. If you're interested, call Carletta at the station... WBAI's Public Affairs Director, Mario Murillo, is now a regular contributor to the journal Colombia Update... Joyce West (a contributor to Lee Ryan's Only in New York–Sundays, 6:30 pm) is a Ph.d. candidate in International Education at New York University... Also hitting the books is Arts Department producer Floraine Kay, who studying for a Master's degree in Theatre History at the State University of New York in Stoney Brook... On Sunday, September 5, an excerpt of Joe Hurley's chapter on John Barrymore's "Hamlet" appeared in the "Arts & Leisure" section of The New York Times. The chapter is part of Variety's recently released "History of Show Business," published by Harry Abrams (Hurley's program airs each Friday at 7:00 pm)... Marjorie Moore (Talkback!, Wednesdays at 4:30 pm) had an article on environmental racism in the August/September issue of City Limits... Rosalba Rolon (Rhondas Latinas, first Sundays at 8:00 pm) is an Artist-in-Residence at Muhlenberg College in Allentown, Pennsylvania. Rosalba continues her duties as director of Pregones Theatre in the Bronx... WBAI producer/storyteller Malika Lee Whitney has enjoyed quite a bit of "extra-audio" narrative lately. In addition to an appearance at the Cinque Gallery in SoHo last month, Malika was also featured in the September issue of Class magazine (if you missed either of those, you can still catch her recital at Ceres on November 5)... Santiago Nieves (Friday Talkback! and Sunday's Latino Journal) testified at a congressional hearing on "Latinos in the Media," which was held at City Hall on October 18... Goodbye and good luck to George Wellington, WBAI's former Operations Director who now presides at WNYC-AM... And, welcome to this world Elizabeth Mullen, daughter of Cait Mullen (Radio Free Eireann, Saturdays, 2:30 pm), who made her "debut" last August...

In Memoriam—Patricia Rich

(1956-1993)

The WBAI staff and friends and co-workers of Pat Rich mourn her passing and express our sympathies to her husband, Don Scherdin, and to Pat's mother, sisters and brothers. Pat died on October 15, 1993 after a struggle with cancer. She was not in pain.

Shortly after arriving from Indiana in the early 1980s, Pat worked at WBAI's then neighbor—"Sing Out" magazine. Next began her many administrative positions at the station. Pat worked tirelessly at each of them: Music Librarian, Folio Editor, Assistant Manager, and In-Kind Contributions Director. But the position that gave her—and her listeners—the most joy was that of host and producer of "Get Rhythm," her music program. Pat filled the air with the music of New Orleans Blues and Rhythm & Blues: the Neville Brothers, Dr. John, Irma Thomas and Professor Longhair; and rare and wonderful recordings of Otis Redding, Howlin' Wolf and Larry Williams. And, in the true WBAI tradition, Pat always shared her recordings and musical knowledge with other hosts.

In 1987, while she continued to do her show, Pat became a community organizer with the New York City Department of Transportation. She worked with high school students in a city-wide effort to make young New Yorkers aware of the consequences of driving while intoxicated or on drugs. There, as at WBAI, Pat had warm and supportive relationships.

We will miss Pat greatly. But, we will keep her memory and spirit alive by playing the music she loved ... and playing it loud!

Pat and Don requested that any contributions be forwarded to the National Breast Cancer Coalition (1-800) 935-0434.

6:30 Dear Comrade: Letters From the Gulag The Soviet Union "purges" of the late 1930s killed millions of people, including a large part of the Bolshevik party. Many people were put on "trial" and spent decades in prisons and some were never heard from again. Yet many remained loyal to the party, separating events of the day from the gains and goal of the revolution. Under glasnost, many documents from the archives of the former Soviet Union were released, including letters from prisoners, investigators, and Stalin himself. In this program, we dramatize some of those letters with historical background. Produced by Rosemarie Reed (preempts Joe Bevilacqua's Radio Theater)

1:30 Back of the Book Our final program of 1993, says goodbye to Autumn with a round of the Horsewhip Santa Game! Fat old red ass wiggling around trying to avoid the crack of the whip, jolly old elf whiskers flying everywhere, Season's Ranklings to everyone! In a religious architectural segment, Pope Weaselpenis XVI guides us through the new Spiritual Vomitorium he has infallibly declared must now be attached to every confessional. The Faithful are seen upchucking their mortal sins, and dribbling a few venial ones, right after an act of Contrition. In line with the greed and cheap religiosity of the season, the video portion of this program will consist of the classic parable, "The Abbess and the Electric Sin Machine." It' about getting a buzz on in a nunnery. Bah! Humbug! Free Form Radio with R. Paul Martin

2:00 Games People Play Producer Jan Albert presents a two-part special. First up: an interview with Fred, bonnie, Katya and Josh Waitzkin, the NYC family that inspired the recent film "Searching for Bobby Fischer." Revealed as a chess prodigy at the age of four, Josh Waitzkin is currently the # ! player in America under 18, and an international master. Fred Waitzkin wrote the book about his son's incredible talent that led to the film. The whole family gets into the act here, describing life with a chess champion and the experience of seeing themselves depicted on the silver screen. Then, stay tuned for an award-winning documentary from the WBAI archives produced by Jan Albert in 1979, "The Play's the Thing!" takes us through a long night at New York's games clubs to meet the men and women who make their living matching wits over chess, backgammon, and even monopoly boards. For these brilliant minds, the play is most definitely the thing!

Listeners Respond

Dear Nancy Rodriguez (Con Sabor Latino):

I am writing to commend you on the fine work you have been doing in contributing your very obvious talents toward the exposure of our latin culture and its many artists. Your Sept. 25 documentary on Hector Lavoe was a work of excellence. I have been a listener of [Con Sabor Latino] for several years now and am guilty of not writing to you and your [colleagues] long before this [to] compliment all of you for this fine cultural entity given to all who will appreciate. Please continue in your pursuit which has no match that I know of; and of which has some of the greatest forms of art possibly ever. [Y]our work is certainly cut out for you, and [I] appreciate you very much. I would like the single disk of Hector Lavoe, if possible. Please find enclosed my donation to [WBAI] to off-set some of the operating expenses. Please consider me a friend and supporter of the fine work you are doing (you have a beautiful voice and communication ability).

L. Padron, Woodhaven NY

Dear Raven (Circle of Red Nations):

It was truly wonderful to hear your voice again. I missed not listening to your messages. I was really impressed by the statements that [one of] your guest made [last month]; that he was not looking to isolate himself from his racial diversity, [but] rather looking to bring everyone together. I can seriously relate to this [as] I am also an individual with a multi-ethnic background and I appreciate anyone trying to being people together, [especially] when the trend has been to pull them apart. I must commend you for [introducing] this author to the public before the Daily News caught up with him. Once again, you are ahead of the times. I congratulate you on this. I had not realized how long I had been listening to WBAI until one of your guests mentioned "Sequoia." I remember listening to her show, only not to hear it again. I am happy that you are [t]here to continue the message. I wish that my pledge could have been larger. Perhaps in the future I will be able to contribute more to keeping you and your message strong. Thank you for allowing me to take a little of your time [and] for keeping the word coming. Believe me, there are people out there—I'm one of them—willing to listen.

The Cat Who Refuted Chomsky

(who refuted Chomsky?—Shouldn't that read that?) The position of Professor Noam Chomsky as the dominant linguistic theorist of the late 20th century rests, to a degree, on his "generative" model of language (The Times referred to him as possibly the most important intellect of the period and wondered at his "errant nonsense" on world affairs).

The propaganda model proposed in "Manufacturing Consent," his collaboration with Edward Herman, offers an analytical framework with which to examine the errant nonsense characteristic of the news columns, op-ed pages, cultural and sports coverage and advertising found in The Times (who applies to persons—this is about a cat!)

Cut to Victoria Starr, picking up her mail. I was answering the phone. Enter Pussifica T. Catt, meowing. Normally, Pussifica was among the calmest, quietest of cats. The 24-hour surrealities that must make up a cat's-eye view of this eccentric zone (it should be so posted) seemed to have induced a serenity born of having seen it all. This was a purposeful, "attention-must-be-paid-now" meow. He strode through reception, out into the elevator corridor, then stuck his head back in the door. This was performance!

Chomsky argues that generative communication sets us apart. Animals can respond to such signals as "sit," or "roll over," simple communications that convey the same meaning each time. We have the capacity to combine elements from a finite vocabulary to generate a virtually unlimited range of new meaning.

Pussifica persisted. We followed him out into the elevator corridor. He jumped up onto the standing, sandified ashtray and delivered his protest. Pussifica is missed. One would like to believe something of him survives in those of us who shared his space. Call it Samhain, All Souls' Day, or Hallowe'en; on this day, may this communicative community remember a familiar spirit.
